👉 hello this is ilker,
your answer to one of the questions is wrong.

21. When analyzing an outcome for creation of value for customers, what attributes of the service should be considered?

- a) Objectives, Metric, Desired outcome
- b) Business Objectives, IT objectives, Process metrics
- c) Desired outcome, Supplier metrics, IT objectives
- d) People, Products, Technology

. Customers don't care about IT objectives. The answer is A.

- I think Question 17 is incorrect.

What does the Service V model represent?

- a) A strategy for the successful completion of all Service Management projects
- b) The path to Service Delivery and Service Support for efficient and effective utilization of resources
- c) Levels of Configuration and testing required to deliver a Service Capability
- d) The business perspective as perceived by the customer and the user of services

The correct answer is c) The Service V Model can be used to represent the different configuration levels to be built and tested to deliver a service capability.
